Risk Disclosure

Futures and Forex trading contains substantial risk and is not for every investor. An investor could potentially lose all or more than the initial investment. Risk capital is money that can be lost without jeopardizing one's financial security or lifestyle. Only risk capital should be used for trading and only those with sufficient risk capital should consider trading. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results.

Futures and Forex trading requires in-depth knowledge of the securities markets and trading techniques and strategies. In attempting to profit through Futures and Forex trading, you should have appropriate experience before engaging in prop trading.

It is advised to be aware of any local laws before trading. You should seek independent financial, legal, and tax counsel. This site does not constitute advice from the Company or any of its affiliates, directors, officers, or employees.

Any person in any nation or territory where such distribution or usage would be contrary to local law or regulation is prohibited from using the Company's services.

Hypothetical Performance Disclosure

Hypothetical performance results have many inherent limitations, some of which are described below. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown; in fact, there are frequently sharp differences between hypothetical performance results and the actual results subsequently achieved by any particular trading program. One of the limitations of hypothetical performance results is that they are generally prepared with the benefit of hindsight. In addition, hypothetical trading does not involve financial risk, and no hypothetical trading record can completely account for the impact of financial risk of actual trading. For example, the ability to withstand losses or to adhere to a particular trading program in spite of trading losses are material points which can also adversely affect actual trading results. There are numerous other factors related to the markets in general or to the implementation of any specific trading program which cannot be fully
